

Assignment 4:

Question: Design and develop an Android app that allows users to register and login. Your app should:

1. Have a login screen which will allow user to enter username and password. When user clicks register, then the username and password is stored in the sqlite database.
2. In the login screen, user can enter the registered username and click on login. If the username exist in the database, then user is taken to a new activity (welcome activity) and it displays a welcome message for the username. See the screenshot for reference.
